AN INJUSTICE.

The decision of the Railway Commission regarding the application of the Redcliff Rolling Mills for a reduction in rates on bar iron from here to the Pacific coast will be watched with considerable interest not only by the people of Redcliff but by manufacturers throughout the west.

The comparison of rates between east and west as shown by R. B. Bennett before the commission, shows clearly the handicap under which western concerns are laboring, and also the manner in which the eastern concerns in the same line of business are being spoon fed.

We hear a great deal these days of Canada's great opportunity for industrial development but how can there be any chance of industrial development in the west so long as there is this discrimination in the matter of freight rates. There is no encouragement to develop industries in the west so long as the goods to be manufactured can be shipped into the western market from the east cheaper than they can be shipped from point to point in the west. Nor is there much encouragement for western consumers to purchase western made goods, manufactured at our very doors, if it costs just as much to deliver them a thousand miles as it does to deliver them two thousand miles.

This is a matter the whole west is vitally interested in. It is a matter which must be satisfactorily adjusted before we can look for any material industrial development. It is simply putting the horse before the cart to start industries and leaving these matters till afterwards for consideration.

There should be a joint movement of all the western councils and boards of trade to place the matter fairly and squarely before those who are doing so much talking about Canada's great opportunity.

The Railway Commission has rendered the worst great service in the past but if it should happen that they should favor us in this case the people should not let the matter drop.

ANOTHER BY-ELECTION.

Redcliff is to have another by-election. This time it is to elect two councillors to fill the vacancies caused by the retirement of Messrs. Ireland and Devitt from that body.

Nomination day has been set for July 24th and should an election be necessary the same will be held on July 31st.

Usually very little interest is taken in by-elections. On one occasion here so little interest was taken that the nomination day went by without having a sufficient number of qualified candidates put in the field. It is hoped this will not happen again.

So far we have heard of no ratepayers who have declared themselves as willing to offer their services for this purpose. The selection of candidates should not be left till the last minute. We should commence now to look for men who are best fitted for the work.

Besides being a by-election for the council there will also have to be one for the school board, as Mr. Hayes, who leaves town this week, was chairman of that body.

It would be a good idea if the board would meet and arrange to hold their by-election at the same time and place as the council. This would save expense and would have a tendency to create a keener interest.

NOW IS THE TIME.

The suggestion made by our Harvest Vale correspondent in his article this week regarding the vacant land in this district is a good one and one that should be acted upon by the least possible delay.

On several occasions in the past the Review has drawn attention to this matter and we have pointed out the serious drawback both to the town and surrounding country this vast area of vacant land means.

In driving through the country contiguous to Redcliff during the few weeks we have had this fact brought home to us more forcibly than ever and could not help but feel what a great shame it is that thousands of acres of excellent land which should be producing millions of bushels of grain are still lying idle.

It seems to us there could be no time more opportune than the present to bring to the attention of the Dominion government this very unsatisfactory state of affairs.

The Dominion government has spent thousands of dollars lately on an advertising campaign, the object of which was to induce the farmers to produce as much as possible in order to keep the bread basket of the Empire well filled during her present trying times. Organizations, which have for their object the providing of land for returned soldiers, have sprung into existence during the past year. The imperial parliament is sending representatives to all parts of the Empire with the same object in view. Sir Rider Haggard, one of these, is at present in Canada on that mission. What is going to be done? It is just possible that in order to get land for these soldiers, our country a thousand miles from nowhere will be opened up and settled, while these thousands of acres in the heart of civilization and surrounded by all the conveniences which go to make farm life more pleasant, will remain as they are.

Our Harvest Vale correspondent is right. There should be some concerted movement along these lines and we suggest and now is the time for it. The Minister of the Interior, under whose department this comes, is now on his way to the Yukon. Before long he will be returning and he will pass through Redcliff. If some movement were started now things could be gotten in shape to have him stop here and look over the situation. One only has to see the country to be convinced there is not as they should be.

ALL WORK TOGETHER.

This great war which has by now smashed British colonial ties and leave the old land stranded at the mercy of Krupp guns shooting across from Calais, has, as we have said before, had the very opposite effect.

Not only are the people of the British Dominion loyal to the mother country, but they are stirred to heroic sacrifice by the spectacle of her suffering and danger. They cannot do enough to show their love for the native land of their sires.

There never was a time in the history of the Empire when there were more evidences of that spirit of getting together and working in the best interests of all concerned than there is at the present time.

From all corners of the Empire representatives are being sent forth to confer with Britain and her allies to lay plans for a closer interdependence in all lines of trade and commerce. And now arrangements are being made whereby all the dominions will be given a voice in the framing of policies which affect the Empire as a whole.

Under the proposed regime Canadian, Australian and South African governments will have their say in all big discussions and decisions. This will require the changing of the constitution, but the outcome will be of far more importance than the preservation of hoary traditions.

Thus, with the co-operation of governments and financial and business activities, the units of the Empire will take a new lease of life and start on a new phase of Empire development.

The Enemy Suffers
Big Loss in Drive

The Reuter correspondence sends the following dispatch from the Press Camp, British army in France, under date of July 11th:

"It being a week ago today since the British offensive developed, the occasion is opportune to review the progress made. We have pushed in the German salient between Albert and the Somme to an extreme depth at the point of our greatest advance of about three miles. We hold the villages of Montauban, Fricourt and Mametz and are well across the river of Contalmaison. At various interesting points of tactical importance our line is firmly established. "We have taken upward of 6,000 prisoners, 21 guns, 31 machine guns, a large number of automatic rifles, trench mortars and other military booty."

The enemy is known to have suffered terrible losses. For example, the third division of the Prussian Guards brought up as reinforcements, have been so depleted that the remnants of the corps have been withdrawn as no longer war-worthy for the time. Prisoners say that the morale of these guards is badly shaken, this applying equally to the officers.

ISLAND MONARCHS

The offer on lease of Horn, one of the smallest of the uninhabited Channel Islands, has been made to some risk now of becoming an island king and queen. There are several monarchs of that kind in the islands adjacent to Great Britain. However, the Van Hecke family, the Marquess of Bute is the owner and king of the island of Bute, one of the largest island kingdoms around our coast, with an area of 12,000 acres and a population of 10,000. The islands of Colonsay and Oronsay belonged to the late Lord Strathmore, and these are generally one or two of the favorites for sale. Bute's island, with several of the smaller Channel Islands, changed hands in the market and the Earl of Argyll, who has a coast line of five miles, was sold to Sir Samuel Matheson of St. John's. Perhaps the most important monarch is the Earl of Sutherland, at the coast of Sutherland, where the thirty inhabitants, many of whom have never been on the mainland, there are no police on the island and no church, and the tax collector is unknown. The "king" is Michael Watt, who succeeded to the throne on the death of his father who reigned for thirty-five years.

HINTS ON POSING FOR A GOOD PHOTOGRAPH

Many Facts That Should be Born in Mind When Visiting the Studio—Don't Try to Look Pleasant

The studio always rings with the same tale—she wants her photograph taken to look to "nature," and naturally she wants to look her very best, too. This is a very pretty idea. If she can give good advice, to remember a few points—

When sitting for profile the hair needs to be very carefully arranged. If the nose is rather large, tuck the hair out at the back, as this considerably lessens the effect. The owner of too small a nose should wear her hair flat at the back so that it does not detract from the nose line. If the latter feature is too prominent, it might be, it is better to choose the three-quarter face effect. The hair is always most important in a woman's photograph.

If a full faced portrait is being taken, and the face is inclined to be long, do not dress the hair on top of the head—this only increases the length effect—but make the fullest at the sides of the head. A very plunging faced girl should do her hair closely to her head when sitting for the full face.

Do not, however, make any very radical change in the dressing of your hair, or it will not look "just you" to friends.

The Clothes Problem Now, as to clothes. Don't try to be elaborate. It is a mistake to be photographed in other than your ordinary garments; and it is better that the clothing should not be too dark. While over-dressing is not good taste, and extreme fashion dates, it should be remembered that a string of beads often strikes a note of individuality, or a dark bow, a striking brooch, or buttons, agreeably relieve the plain surface of a blouse.

Speaking generally, it is better not to be photographed in a hat, as often the hair is not tidy at the back, and the majority of hats date.

Don't trouble about your hands—they will look after themselves if left alone. And unless it is character-istic of you, to show your teeth, let the lips rest naturally, keeping the corners up. Don't struggle to "look pleasant"—"look natural" is far better. Rely for "expression" in your eyes rather than your mouth.

Unless you have a particular preference, let the photographer arrange your pose by being a stranger. He gets a good impression of the exact position in which your face appears at its very best to the ordinary observer. And, ladies, we know this is your object.

Ten Canadian Pacific Railway tourist cars filled to capacity with honeymooners reached Winnipeg recently. It was the biggest batch of honeymooners from Ontario since the excursions were inaugurated last April.

LITTLE KNOWN PATRICIA

Sparsely Settled Home of Fur Traders and Indians

It is inaccessible, except by light canoe, from any of the southern and more settled parts of Ontario, and some of the main lines of travel used by the early fur traders of the Hudson's Bay Company passed through Patricia to the plains of the Saskatchewan for the forests of the Alaskan coast. No attempt has been made to develop any other industry but the fur trade, and consequently, though not at all the most remote, it is one of the least known parts of Canada. It is very sparsely populated, the total number of people in it being 2,000, about 9 of whom are white fur traders, while 2,000 are Indians belonging to the Cree and Ojibway tribes who live by hunting and fishing, though a few of the more civilized have small gardens in which they grow potatoes. The above population gives an average of one person, man, woman, or child, to every fifty square miles of country.

An official report from London says: "An aeroplane crossed the level south last Monday. Anti-aircraft guns fired on the aeroplane, which turned seaward, chased by British machines. It was not over-shaken. No bombs were dropped."

Russians Join French On Front Lines
 The Excelsior says the Russian contingents which arrived in France recently, have been quartered at Camp de Mailly, near Troyes, have been sent to join French forces at the front.
 Five contingents of Russian troops landed at Marseilles between April 29 and May 5, after land and sea journey of about 17,000 miles from Moscow, where they were assembled in Port Dalry, Manchuria, and thence by water to Brest. The sending of the Russian troops was largely in the nature of an experiment. It was said in Paris several weeks ago that the first Russian contingents probably about 25,000 men, might be followed by more substantial numbers, but no word has been received of further arrivals.
 John Derr, his wife and two children, were drowned in the Red Deer river at Rosedale last Sunday afternoon. They were trying to cross the river in a boat, which was caught in the drift and capsized. None of the bodies have been recovered.

BRITISH HOLDING GROUND
 THEY HAVE GAINED.

An official report from London, regarding the present position of the British after a ten days fight of the drive, says:

"Although the extent of ground which has been maintained by the British offensive is not great, there is general satisfaction in England at the success attained by the army of Gen. Haig during the 15 days' fighting and the belief exists that the advantage position now occupied will make possible greater achievements."

The capture of the whole of the "Germany" first system of defense on a front of 14,000 yards (nearly eight miles), after 10 days and nights of continuous fighting, is announced in the official report from British headquarters in France, which said that the number of prisoners taken exceeded 7,500.

The capture of Contalmaison, Maestricht and Tross woods gave the British a line running almost due east and west so that the Germans to the north can be attacked on the flank when the guns are brought up for the second phase of the operations. To the south of the river the French are in a position somewhat similar to the British and likewise can attack the German flank south of Bellefleur and Tross woods.

For the moment, however, the two armies are engaged in preparing their new positions."

To The Ratepayers
 On the eve of my departure from Redcliff I take this opportunity of again thanking you for the honors you have conferred on me in the past and I trust that my successor in the council may be given the same liberal assistance as I have received. I thank you for the pleasant social and business relations and hope that the coming years may see great prosperity for Redcliff. I trust that I may be spared to again become a citizen of the coming manufacturing center of eastern Canada, and until very truly I bid you Au Revoir.
